PRESS RELEASE

Standard Capital Markets Limited Announces Redemption of Non-Convertible Debentures (NCDs)

New Delhi, February 24, 2026:

Standard Capital Markets Limited (“the Company”) has decided and also started to redeem its outstanding Non-Convertible Debentures (NCDs) following discussions with the subscriber regarding the proposed revision in the interest rate.

The NCDs were originally issued carrying an interest rate of 10% per annum, as mutually agreed at the time of issuance. Recently, the subscriber requested an increase in the interest rate from 10% per annum to 13% per annum. After detailed internal evaluation and careful consideration of the Company’s financial strategy, cost of funds, and long-term business objectives, the Company has decided not to accept the proposed increase in the interest rate.

In light of this development, and in accordance with the terms of the NCD agreement and applicable regulatory provisions, the Company has resolved to proceed with the redemption of the outstanding NCDs. The redemption has been started as permitted under the agreed terms, ensuring full compliance with contractual obligations and applicable laws.

The management believes that maintaining financial prudence and discipline is essential for protecting shareholder value and sustaining the Company’s growth trajectory. The decision to redeem the NCDs reflects the Company’s commitment to optimizing its capital structure and managing borrowing costs responsibly and optimizing the shareholders wealth to the best extent.

The Company confirms that the redemption will not have any adverse impact on its ongoing operations, liquidity position, or growth plans as Company is already exploring the options to raise Capital by the way of equity infusion. Standard Capital Markets Limited continues to remain financially stable and focused on expanding its business activities in a sustainable and strategic manner.

Standard Capital Markets Limited reiterates its commitment to transparency, regulatory compliance, and maintaining strong relationships with its investors and stakeholders.
